

Caroline S. Weckerle is a Swiss botanist and ethnobotanist, and head of the Botanical Garden at the University of Zurich. Her research explores human–plant relationships and the cultural uses of plants, with a focus on ritual and medicinal traditions in Asia, Europe, and Africa. She currently leads a Swiss–Ugandan research project on Traditional Medicine in Transition, examining the dynamics of local healing practices in contemporary contexts.